Rescued From Death.
William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1875 I was taken with a severe cold, which followed by a severe cough, I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report was made that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and in a few days I was able to get up. I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping some one afflicted with Consumptive Lung will take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

ELECTION DAY.

The foreign-born citizen, when endowed with the elective franchise, esteems it a right and privilege, to which he clings with great tenacity, feeling that his single ballot and personal influence are units in the great governmental power. He realizes that he is one of the particles which compose the great republican edifice, and perhaps the proudest moment of his life is when he deposits his ballot for the first time. Though there may be exceptions, foreign-born citizens are more jealous of their political privileges than those of American birth. This is manifest by the great interest displayed by them in local and public questions which depend upon the ballot-box for solution, and on election-day his actions denote that he realizes his importance and feels as if his presence at the polls were indispensable. The most abstruse problem in political economy is discussed by him with the same freedom and independence that he elucidates the simplest proposition, realizing that, right or wrong, it is his privilege to present his views and endorse them with his ballot.

ENGLISH LAW.

An interesting case connected with the law of married women's property was decided a few days ago in the English Court of Appeal. A Miss Farquharson, on the eve of her marriage to Mr. Hofa Williams, ordered a trousseau costing several thousand dollars of a London milliner named Mercer. The modiste, being tired of dunning, at last sued the bride in her own name, apart from her husband, and seized her jewelry. Mrs. Williams contended that the jewelry, which had been given to her by her friends and her husband, belonged in law to him, and could not, therefore, be seized to satisfy a claim against her. Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge held that her contention was sound, and a court in banc was evenly divided on the question whether his ruling was right. The case was taken to the Court of Appeal, and every one had prepared for an exciting and subtle discussion, when the Master of the Rolls raised a question overlooked by eminent counsel and gifted judges in the two previous trials. "Was there any marriage settlement between Mr. and Mrs. Williams?" asked Sir George Jessel. There had been one, and it was produced, and the discovery was made that it expressly conveyed to the bride for her separate use all the jewels of which she was then possessed or might become possessed after her marriage. The milliner obtained judgement.

The Carson Index makes this suggestion to the Democracy:

Since it has become fashionable to tender advice to the Democracy, it will be in order to suggest the name of John R. Kittrell as the standard-bearer of the untried legions of un-reconstructed Bourbonism in Nevada.

The Democrats would do their party credit by giving General Kittrell a place on the State ticket. On the night of November 3d it would be a source of gratification to them to know that their defeat was not attributable to bad nominations, if their ticket is made up of men like John R. Kittrell.

The President has approved the sentence in the case of Lieutenant Flipper, which is dismissal from the service.

A band of four counterfeiters was arrested in Cartersville, in Missouri. The coining was carried on underground. In a drift of an old shaft in the Cartersville mines the plaster of paris moulds for coining were found.

A United States Marshal will be appointed for Arizona early next week. Attorney General Brewster says he has made a selection, but will not say who. It Col. Zabiskie will accept it, instead of the District Attorneyship, he will be named.

TO-DAY'S NEWS

Press Dispatches to EVENING GAZETTE.

EASTERN.

General Rosecrans Explains.

WASHINGTON, June 15.

General Rosecrans said to-night that the statement that General Stager had told him of the Garfield interview with Stanton at Louisville was incorrect; that he had meant to say it was Stager that made the statement to General Francis Dorr, formerly of the regular army and now in business in New York, while the two were at West Point together a year ago, and that Dorr the same night wrote me (Rosecrans) a letter giving Stager's statement in full.

CHICAGO, June 15.

Colonel S. K. Houston, of this city, who commanded the First Michigan Engineer Corps at Chickamauga, was interviewed on the Garfield-Rosecrans controversy. He says he was in a position to know what was going on at that time, and knew the substance of many cipher dispatches passing; that Garfield may have been indiscreet, but was never disloyal to his commander; that the proofs are in existence to substantiate those statements, that there are officers now in the regular army who could clear Garfield's memory from aspersion were it not for the fear of offending a West Point graduate (apparently meaning General Rosecrans). He refuses to state the nature of this evidence, on the ground that it is not the proper time for it. He believes this controversy has been instituted by Rosecrans' friends to put him in training for the Presidency of the United States.

THE GENERAL GETS MAD.

WASHINGTON, June 15.

General Rosecrans deems that he is being badly treated by his Democratic friends in San Francisco. He furnishes the following to a correspondent to-day: "To the face of my pledges to the people in 1880, of my life-long character, and of what I had done in Congress on the Chinese question, mean and mousing liars, taking advantage of my absence and the silence of the press, have been peddling around the falsehoods that I had been untrue to these pledges. My colleagues of national character contradicted the lies, and I submit their testimony and my own word to all Congressmen against the poison of the Chronicle and its scurrilous tale. To the best of my knowledge and belief the railroad influence is against me. The do not forgive wrongs they have done, much less requite favors. They know they can neither buy nor use me for any unjust legislation. My well-known, persistent and constant adherence to convictions is a guarantee that I will, under all circumstances, stand by the interests of the people on this question. The Chronicle can't oppose me without disregarding its own position on that question."

Political Surpositions.

WASHINGTON, June 15.

It is rumored here that the President had advised Senator Cameron to take steps for calling a new Republican Convention in Pennsylvania, as the only way possible in which party troubles there can be managed. This statement cannot be positively confirmed. Senator Cameron left the city to-day, and it is said he has gone to New York. The President is not presumed to be taking a hand in Pennsylvania politics, and at the White House nothing is known of the rumor. The report that the President has concluded to keep his hand out of the Republican mess in New York State, seems well founded, and has attracted considerable attention. It was asserted that the influence of the administration would be exerted to defeat Cornell. A recent visit of Mr. John Starin to the city, subsequent to the President's return from New York, gave color to the supposition that real arrangements had been made in a deal that was to set p Starin as the administration candidate for Governor. It now appears that Starin was told the President would be glad to see him nominated, but could not take steps that, by embittering faction fights, would certainly give the State to the Democrats.

A Nice Bout between High Officials.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

At an interview between the Postmaster-General, Van Wyck and Kelly, when the former had concluded his catechism, the Senator turned upon his questioner and said: "This accounts for the delay, does it? I want to know if you intend me to understand that because I vote according to my convictions in the Senate my suggestions are to be unheeded by this administration? Is that what you mean? If it is, tell me so plainly and I will never darken your doors again. I want to know the fact, so it may be made known to my constituents that simply because of my votes in the Senate their representative is to lose all influence in the departments under this administration." "Why," interrupted Teller, "that's what Hayes did for me because I did not support his nomination." "Well," shouted the now indignant Senator, "you called him a dirty, sneaking loafer for it, didn't you? That's what my opinion of this administration is, if this is a specimen of its policy. How is it with your department?" addressing himself to Teller. "I want to know all about this thing. We are interested in a few dark things in our State. Am I to come and see you or stay away?"

Teller, who was leaving, soon rejoined: "Oh, come over and see about them by all means."

Turning again to the Postmaster-General the irate Senator continued: "So you keep spies upon us, do you, and you take the word of sneaks who violate their oath and come here to lie about me? That's another reason why I want the executive session abolished. I tell you there is no need of any spies upon me. All I do is open and above-board, and you can know all about it by asking me."

With that the Senator bade the Postmaster-General good morning and departed.

An Indignant Ex-Senator.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

Ex-Senator Eaton of Connecticut is very indignant over the President's make-up of the Tariff Commission. Eaton came here 2 or 3 months ago with a view of influencing the President to select men of high character. Eaton had been identified for some time with tariff reform when a Senator. The President listened very carefully to everything Eaton saw fit to recommend and told him if he would select Democratic names he would nominate them. Eaton said he would not presume to do even that much, but if the President would nominate just one man selected by him it would be all he would care to ask. To this the President gave ready consent. Eaton then suggested Groesbeck of Ohio as one of the best men in that State and a prominent revenue reformer. The President promised to appoint Groesbeck but apparently forgot it.

A Good Day For Undertakers.

JACKSON, MICH., June 16.

An Independent Labor Party.

NEW YORK, June 16.

An Independent Labor party organized last night by the adoption of a platform that American mails be carried by American vessels; that "corners" in food or produce be prohibited, and opposing Chinese and convict labor. Vanderbilt and Gould being, in the opinion of the members, largely interested in labor, will be invited to address the next meeting.

FOREIGN.

Russian Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 16.

Count Tostor having refused to assume the responsibility of the direction of the police, the department will be divided into two sections and a Ministry of Police will be created. This will virtually be a revival of the detested third section under another name. General Treporfen will probably be placed at the head of the new ministry. General Ignatieff's parting interview with the Emperor was very cordial. "Sire," said Ignatieff, "a year ago I told you that at the first sign of distrust I would resign. I am about to keep my word." The Emperor protested and declared that he had no distrust of the General and hoped that the personal relations between them would continue friendly. On Ignatieff leaving, he accompanied him to the door and even insisted on his seeing the Empress, who in consequence of the near approach of her confinement she had given up receiving visitors. Ignatieff's departure leaves power in the hands of a quartette composed of Ostrowsky, Minister of Domain; Delanoff, Minister of Public Instruction; Tostoi, Minister of the Interior, who all three have been connected with the Moscow Gazette; and lastly, M. Kattief, director of that organ. Pobedonostzeff and Treporfen cannot fail to exercise considerable influence. Should Treporfen decline the ministry of police it will no doubt be offered to General Terehervine. These appointments show plainly the retrograde intention of the Russian Government. General Ignatieff's project is instituting a kind of Council General all over the country under the name of Semaki Seabor, and is thus making a bold step toward the introduction of parliamentary representation, which will have little chance of realization for a long time to come. The change in the ministry continues to preoccupy the public mind. Its suddenness surprised everyone, but more especially General Ignatieff himself, who at noon Sunday was ignorant that the decree and name of his successor would appear next day. The general opinion to-day is that the Jews will gain nothing by the change, but quit the country. An energetic Minister is replaced by one who is equally detested, and one who when he left office two years ago had not fifteen partisans in the Empire. The Golos publishes an article against Gen. Ignatieff and says his year of power is a year lost for the Empire. Count Woronzoff demands that the new Minister shall formulate a programme. The Journal de St. Petersburg, which is subventioned by Count Tostoi, can't conceal its joy, but, however, says nothing against Gen. Ignatieff. The Nova Vremya, Gen. Ignatieff's organ, says that Russia will soon feel his loss, but admits that the new Minister, like the old, is no friend to the Government. All the journals that expressed their joy when Count Tostoi resigned two years ago are alarmed, and feel their existence menaced.

General Ignatieff's parting interview with the Emperor was very cordial. "Sire," said Ignatieff, "a year ago I told you that at the first sign of distrust I would resign. I am about to keep my word." The Emperor protested and declared that he had no distrust of the General and hoped that the personal relations between them would continue friendly. On Ignatieff leaving, he accompanied him to the door and even insisted on his seeing the Empress, who in consequence of the near approach of her confinement she had given up receiving visitors. Ignatieff's departure leaves power in the hands of a quartette composed of Ostrowsky, Minister of Domain; Delanoff, Minister of Public Instruction; Tostoi, Minister of the Interior, who all three have been connected with the Moscow Gazette; and lastly, M. Kattief, director of that organ. Pobedonostzeff and Treporfen cannot fail to exercise considerable influence. Should Treporfen decline the ministry of police it will no doubt be offered to General Terehervine. These appointments show plainly the retrograde intention of the Russian Government. General Ignatieff's project is instituting a kind of Council General all over the country under the name of Semaki Seabor, and is thus making a bold step toward the introduction of parliamentary representation, which will have little chance of realization for a long time to come. The change in the ministry continues to preoccupy the public mind. Its suddenness surprised everyone, but more especially General Ignatieff himself, who at noon Sunday was ignorant that the decree and name of his successor would appear next day. The general opinion to-day is that the Jews will gain nothing by the change, but quit the country. An energetic Minister is replaced by one who is equally detested, and one who when he left office two years ago had not fifteen partisans in the Empire. The Golos publishes an article against Gen. Ignatieff and says his year of power is a year lost for the Empire. Count Woronzoff demands that the new Minister shall formulate a programme. The Journal de St. Petersburg, which is subventioned by Count Tostoi, can't conceal its joy, but, however, says nothing against Gen. Ignatieff. The Nova Vremya, Gen. Ignatieff's organ, says that Russia will soon feel his loss, but admits that the new Minister, like the old, is no friend to the Government. All the journals that expressed their joy when Count Tostoi resigned two years ago are alarmed, and feel their existence menaced.

Hon. G. W. Merrill, Eureka, is in town.

J. B. Woods of Virginia is at the Palace.

Geo. Humphrey slipped down from Truckee yesterday.

Philip Reese from the Comstock was in town last night.

Wm. Fimion an old and highly respected citizen of White Pine county, was in Reno last evening.

F. W. Pike, from Mill Creek, Homer Mining District, is in Reno and will probably go East by the Southern Pacific railroad.

Jottings.

Two "dead engines" for the O. and C. R. R. passed west to-day on the noon train.

The N. & O. has added another car to its outfit.

Numbers of Chinamen are going south to work on the Carson & Colorado road.

Received at I. Barnett's, black silk broadened, grenadines and black binding.

Thermometer at 7, 9, 11, 1 and 3—65, 76, 77, 78. Flags and fireworks at Nasby.

Black and opera-colored lisle and silk mitts, for ladies and children, at I. Barnett's.

If you miss seeing the Mitchell Pleasure Party Saturday evening, you will regret it.

If you want a piano or sewing machine, see Allen; you can have one at your own price.

A heavy fly-wheel and other machinery for a flour mill in Surprise valley, is at the depot.

The small boy is very intent upon getting bottles and old junk. He scents a circus in the distance.

A. T. Rice lost a valuable pair of sleeve buttons. He found them by advertising in the GAZETTE.

A man who has tried the experiment says, when one is sick and cannot bear the sight of food, will readily eat and relish it in the dark.

A large grinding pan destined for the Summers Mill, at Sweetwater, some 70 miles south of Carson, is at the depot awaiting shipment.

Dave Martin don't propose to take second place again. Unless he can act as best man first, last and all the time he intends to leave the country.

Don't forget the Turners' picnic, Sunday. Go, and enjoy yourself. The fare is only $1.50, up and back, and including admission to the grounds. A great many intend going from here.

Beef Cattle.

There are two causes for the late remarkable advance in the price of beef. The first is the constant and heavy drain on our cattle supply for the European markets; and the second is the extraordinary increase of our population last year and during the first five months of this, from immigration. In the last seventeen months the European arrivals have overgone one million, 90 per cent. of them adults and meat consumers. The two causes combined have drawn upon the country for not less than half a million more cattle than its consumption in ordinary years; while the production has not increased in anything like that proportion. Texas and Colorado have been so thoroughly drained that ranchers now find a ready market for their bullocks at $25 to $30 per head than they did two years ago at $18 and $20. The Pacific States might supplement the Texas and Colorado supply of cattle if we had equally cheap transportation. A recent Census Bureau statement puts the cattle of California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington Territory at 1,324,000 head. If but one-half of these are above two years of age, the Pacific coast could very soon relieve the Eastern cattle market from present abnormal prices.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The Cold Reception of a Party of Truckees at Webber Lake.

Mrs. A. Jay Anderson, Mrs. W. F. Edwards and child, and three men left Truckee at 4:30 P. M., Wednesday, for Webber Lake. In attempting to cross a creek near the lake, it being very dark, their wagon capsize, and the party found themselves floundering about in several feet of ice-cold water, and at the dead hour of night. The men, with the greatest difficulty, managed to rescue the ladies and little girl. After getting out one of the men took the child in his arms, went up the creek to cross on the bridge, where the plank had been taken up, and walked off, falling several feet, into fifteen feet of water. The party at last reached the hotel, on the shores of the lake, nearly frozen to death. They knocked at the door, but for nearly twenty minutes were refused admittance by the men inside. Mrs. Anderson and Dr. Webber have been having trouble about a lease of the Webber Lake Hotel, and Webber and his men, thinking they had come to get possession of the premises, refused to let them in. At last Mrs. Edwards told them their child was freezing to death, when they opened the door and admitted the party. They were allowed to remain until morning when the men, finding Mrs. Anderson was one of the party, ordered them away. They returned to Truckee yesterday, and Mrs. Anderson came to Reno on this morning's train.

A Paradise Receipt.

The Silver State says the ranchers of Paradise have a new scheme whereby they are getting the best of the grasshoppers. As soon as the young hoppers are discovered coming out of their eggs, and when they are just commencing to jump their way through the world, the ranchers run a ditch of water around a corral-shaped inclosure, and as the cool of the evening approaches a lot of straw is strewn around and the hoppers immediately commence to go under it to get out of the cool air. In the evening or early in the morning the straw is set on fire, burning up the pests completely. In this way it is computed that millions of them have been destroyed very easily. If the work is attended to promptly, the grasshopper scourge, it is thought, can be surmounted.

Another Comet.

Evans, of the Pollard House, thinks he has discovered another comet. It is in the southern heavens, about midway between the horizon and the zenith, and was visible last night at 12 o'clock in the edge of the "milky way." He will provide himself with a telescope to-night and examine the stranger critically, and if it turns out to be a new comet he will claim the reward offered for the discovery of comets and other celestial curiosities.

The Shooting Team.

The following gentlemen have been selected to go to Carson Sunday and shoot in the Reno Guard rifle team: Charles Stoddard, R. H. Lindsay, F. A. Teasland, J. F. Alexander, R. F. Hoy, Frank Perkins, M. J. Curtis, Asa Dawson, S. A. Hamlin and Allen C. Bragg. Teams from other companies want to shoot with a steady nerve and unerring eye if they expect to win the prize, for the Reno boys will punch a hole in the bulleseye big enough to crawl through. Mebbe.

A Wise Plan.

Everyone wishing to try the new remedy for biliousness and constipation—Syrup of Figs—can obtain a trial bottle, free of charge, at R. E. Queen's drug store, Reno, Nev. Knowing Syrup of Figs to be better in its effect, and more pleasant to the taste than any other remedy, the California Fig Syrup Company has adopted a wise plan to make its merits known to the people.

Excursionists.

Eighty-five excursionists, from Boston and vicinity, arrived on a special train from the west this morning, at 5 o'clock, having come to the Pacific Coast by the Southern route. They spread themselves out around town for an hour or two, and expressed themselves as much pleased with Reno, declaring it one of the coziest towns they had visited during their travels.

Look Out For Them.

The Summer season—or drowning season—has arrived, and parents will do well to look after their boys. Almost any evening crowds of small boys may be seen paddling in the ditches adjacent to the city, and it will be a singularly happy fortune if none of them are drowned.

Clear Atmosphere.

The atmosphere, at sunrise this morning, was remarkably clear. The peaks of the Sierras, to the west of us, could be as plainly seen as if they were but a mile away instead of twenty. The trees and underbrush, on their slopes being visible without the naked eye.

The Wood River Exodus.

Parties arriving from Wood River report times dull and work and money scarce. An exodus of fortune hunters from that section has commenced, and hundreds are unable to get away unless they walk.

IN THE WILDERNESS.

A Band of Reno Kids Having a Grand Time, With Great Expectations.

SHOSHONE RANGE, CAMP 1, June 11, 1882.
ED. GAZETTE:—Did you ever hear it remarked that "this is a gay life?" If you did not, drop in on the Reno boys camped out here on the Shoshone mountains, 700 miles from nowhere, and you would hear it remarked in the morning when they shake the water off their blankets and dig their boots out of the mud; at noon, when they eat their cold lunch on an alkali flat; and at night when they return hungry and tired to their

BACON AND BEANS.

You should have seen our gang on Friday night when we reached Downeyville after having been lost in the mountains, and traveling 45 miles in a rainstorm, 13 1/2 hours without food or water. "Oh, yes," the landlord said, "we have accommodations for four." He led us about a mile through the rain, finally bringing up before an old cabin with a roof like a nutmeg grater, and furniture consisting only of a dilapidated cook-stove. There we spent the night: consequence, one man sick, the rest indisposed, and the loss of three days' work.

THE BOYS SHOW THEIR AGILITY.

One night as the boys were coming into camp they laid down under a juniper, declaring they could go no further without a rest. They thought they were tired, but the leader of a band of cattle got his eye on Dunham's red neck-tie, and they forgot that they were tired. The manner in which they clambered up that cliff and into trees would have made a circus-actor envious of their muscle.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

Look for the return of the boys in the Fall, not "broke," but as wealthy mine owners. This is the greatest mineral country in the world, I believe. The Downey mine, in Downeyville, on Friday, ran a drift into a cave 150 feet from the surface, the walls of which alone contain 2,000 tons of ore that will go over $500 to the ton. It is not known what is beyond this, but the ledge is supposed to extend for a mile very near the surface. The owners of the mine are going to put up another smelter. The one they now have has a capacity of 20 tons per day, and the other is to be of the same size. The whole country around Downeyville and Grantsville is already located, and prospectors are at work everywhere. Ta-ta. Rice.

Grand Officers.

The Grand Lodge F. & A. M. closed its session in Virginia yesterday. The Lodge elected the following gentlemen to serve as Grand Officers for the ensuing year: Grand Master, H. S. Mason, of Carson; Deputy Grand Master, D. E. Bailey, Eureka; Senior Grand Warden, A. L. Fitzgerald, Eureka; Junior Grand Warden, E. S. Yates, Tuscarora; Grand Treasurer, J. W. Eckley, Virginia; Grand Secretary, J. D. Hammond, Carson; Grand Chaplain, W. C. Gray, Carson; Grand Orator, Henry Rolfe, Virginia; Grand Marshal, J. H. Hubbs, Virginia; Grand Standard Bearer, B. F. Foster, Carson; Grand Sword Bearer, W. S. McClellan, Eureka; Grand Bible Bearer, George Walker, Winnemucca; Grand Stewards, S. S. Mooney, Carson; and G. I. Leavitt, Mason Valley; Grand Senior Deacon, O. B. Vincent, Battle Mountain; Grand Junior Deacon, S. S. Sears, Elko; Grand Purveyor, Evan Harris, Cherry Creek; Grand Tyler, E. S. Kincaid, Virginia; Past Grand Master H. L. Fish installed the officers.

Special Train.

D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent, writes J. M. Dillman that the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company will run a special train of five cars from Virginia and intermediate points to Reno, to accommodate all who wish to participate with our people in the Fourth of July celebration, for a responsible guarantee of $300. Alf. Joe has the matter in charge and will, no doubt, make arrangements with the company for a low rate of transportation that day.

The Fourth of July.

The Bodie Free Press says: "Inyo county has decided not to celebrate on the Fourth. That county exhausted itself on the 17th of March." The people of Inyo ought to be ashamed of themselves; however, the following paragraph from the same paper is probably a sufficient apology: "A Bible agent passed through Inyo county last week. He was as much of a curiosity as Jumbo. Many people in that section of the country never before heard of the sacred Word."

"Our Goblins."

The New York York Times says "Our Goblins" was presented by the Mitchell Pleasure Party for the second and last time at the Griswold Opera House last evening to a large and delighted audience. The company excels in every feature of the entertainment and can count on crowded houses whenever it visits Troy. Engage your seats early. They are going rapidly.

Personal.

The little two-year-old son of Doctor Rhodes, Truckee, swallowed some carbolic acid yesterday afternoon and now lies in a very critical condition.

LODE CLAIMS.

Information for the Benefit of an Inquiring Subscriber.

Mining claims upon veins or lodes of quartz or other rock in place, bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, copper or other valuable deposits heretofore located, shall be governed as to length along the vein or lode by the customs, regulations and law in force at the date of their location. A mining claim located after the 10th day of May, 1872, whether located by one or more persons, may equal, but shall not exceed, 1,500 feet in length along the vein or lode; but no location of a mining claim shall be made until the discovery of the vein or lode within the limits of the claim located. No claim shall extend more than 300 feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, nor shall any claim be limited by any mining regulation to less than twenty five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on the 10th day of May, 1872, render such limitation necessary. The end lines of each claim shall be parallel to each other.

For Housewives.

An experienced cabinet maker says that the best preparation for cleaning picture frames and restoring furniture, especially that somewhat marred and scratched, is a mixture of three parts of linseed oil and one part spirits of turpentine. It not only covers the disfigured surface, but restores wood to its original color, leaving a luster upon the surface. Apply with a woolen cloth, and when dry, rub with woolen.

Cleaning Lime Choked Pipes.

Feed, water and other pipes frequently become choked with lime incrustation, causing great annoyance. The following plan has been suggested as a remedy: After plugging one end up securely, pour the pipe full of coal oil, letting it stand over night, when the whole mass will probably, slide out. Pipes have been cleared of incrustated matter in this manner which before were regarded as useless.

Well to Know.

Postal clerks and route agents are not authorized to receive at the cars second-class matter entitled to free distribution within the county, without the same is accompanied by a certificate from the postmaster at the proper office of mailing, that the packages contain only matter entitled to free distribution.

The Nellie Lyons Fund.

The total amount of money collected in Virginia City up to last evening in aid of Denis Callahan's niece was $101.70. This is counting what was collected in the Van Dusen knapsack and outside collections. In San Francisco $187 had yesterday been collected, making in all $288.70.

Accident.

To-day, at noon, as Mrs. Irwin Crane, whose home is near Steamboat Springs, was stepping into a buggy in front of the Arcade, her foot slipped and she fell heavily to the ground, cutting her head badly. Gentlemen standing by instantly offered assistance, and she was taken to the hotel.

Tahoe Trout.

Wm. Douglass, Truckee, sent the GAZETTE a box of fine Tahoe trout to-day. After partaking of a Tahoe trout dinner one feels at peace with all mankind. Mr. Douglass need not fear offending anyone connected with this office should he do so again sometime.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate in Liver and Kidney Troubles.
Dr. U. G. Oliver, Boston, says: "I have used it very extensively, and with the most remarkable success in dyspepsia and in all cases where there is derangement of the liver and kidneys."
